Milo News

Have you been to Lake McGregor recently? Time was when it could be considered Alberta's Largest Pothole surrounded by miles of nothingness. Today, thanks to the efforts of the Memorial Park Association and the Milo-Queens-town Lions Club, it has become a place of beauty with an appeal to young and old. Here you may indulge in boating, fishing, diving and if you bring your own partner, romancing.

A large camp kitchen comparable to those in Banff or Wyndham Park has been erected and picnic tables are also provided. Add to this two ball diamonds, swings, teeter-totters, race-track, trees and grassy slopes and you have something to really talk about. For those who wish to stay a few days there are cabins. O. Ueland, the owner of the cabins, is renovating them and some are ready for occupancy. On Friday the 19th of July, the Milo United Church Ladies Aid will be having their annual Theatre under the Stars program there. Come and see and get acquainted with one of Alberta's beauty spots.

Wednesday Rain Improves Crop Picture; Hay Yield Light

A most welcome rain started falling in the early hours of Wednesday morning and was apparently fairly general over Southern Alberta. It was still raining as the final run of this week's Advocate was readied for the press Wednesday morning.

The rain is badly needed, as hot windy weather during the past week had depleted moisture supplies and crops in general were deteriorating. Crops have been heading rapidly and moisture is needed for filling.

The district has suffered much scattered hail damage this year, but, otherwise, crop prospects are fair to good.

Haying is in progress but the hay crop is much lighter than usual due to the dry weather earlier this season.

Elks Split With Dodgers At Calgary On Sunday

Calgary Dodgers moved alongside Granum White Sox atop the Foothills Wheatbelt Baseball League standings Sunday when they collected a split in their double-header with Vulcan Elks at Buffalo Stadium.

The Dodgers, who Thursday captured first money in the second annual Calgary Baseball Tournament, did nothing more than go through the motions in absorbing a 7-3 lacing in the afternoon encounter. But they came back strong in the nightcap to gain an 11-4 decision.

A six-run seventh inning saw the Dodgers to their victory. Vulcan was leading 3-1 entering the seventh when the club literally fell apart at the seams. Dodgers got but two hits off Chuck Daily but together with three walks and three Vulcan errors it was good for six tallies.

In the eighth Harold Noble deposited a Marty Norman pitch over the left field fence with a mate aboard as the Dodgers added a four-run insurance.

Southpaw Tom McIntosh scattered eight hits effectively in going the distance for the victory. He whiffed 12 men.

Art Alvarez got the Elks off on the right foot in the afternoon tilt by belting a lead-off homer off Ken Ramsey in the first inning. Vulcan tallied twice in the fifth and then drove Ramsey off the hill with a four-run outburst in the sixth frame.

Gregory relieved Ramsey with the bases loaded and only one out. He got Don Jantzie to pop up to right field but Augie Scornaienchi put the Dodgers out of contention with a grand slam roundtripper over the left field barrier.

Doug Marquardt scattered six hits effectively in registering the victory. He struck out eight. Marty Hurd, with a homer and single, was the only Dodger to get more than one hit off him. Norman also had a homer and single for the Elks while Scornaienchi had a pair of singles to go with his round tripper. Jantzie also bashed out a pair of safeties.

COUNTRY FAIRS ARE IMPORTANT
Agricultural fairs are as old as recorded history. For centuries, the fair or festival was one of the great business and social events of the year for country people. In the rural communities of Western Canada the fair is still an event of outstanding importance.

A Vital Activity. The country fair performs functions that no other rural activity is able to do. Besides providing amusement and relaxation, a day at the fair provides farmers with a pleasant opportunity to meet their neighbours and local leaders, and to find out what is new in agriculture. Above all, it provides the ideal place for the people of the surrounding district to display the best products of the farm and home. In short, country fairs stimulate "pride in achievement," and a desire for community advancement.

Today, unfortunately, local Fair Boards and Agricultural Societies are finding it difficult to maintain "the fair" as a vital feature of community life. They need, deserve, and should receive the fullest possible support of every farm family. Let's keep our agricultural fairs going! Make a real effort this year to attend your own local Fair.

A New Mobile Service. To replace its well-known "Agricultural Show on Wheels," the Line Elevators Farm Service is pleased to announce the introduction of a new type of agricultural service—a complete mobile sound and public address unit. The unit consists of an attractive station wagon equipped with three directional speakers, a high amplifier, turn table and tape recorder. It can therefore be used to provide band music for fair and 4-H Club parades, or as a public address system, either stationary or mobile. This new mobile sound unit will be made available, without charge, to Fair Boards, Agricultural Societies, and 4-H Club officials throughout the Prairie Provinces. We feel sure it will fill an important need and perform a most useful service at many agricultural events in Western Canada.

Increased Interest in Russian
Wild Rye Grass

The first farmer in this area who attempted to grow Russian wild rye grass seed was August Lange of Claresholm. Mr. Lange's interest dates back to the early spring of 1954 when sufficient seed was obtained from Canadian and United States points to seed 200 acres. The seed was planted in four-foot rows with a nurse crop of wheat. That fall a reasonably good crop of wheat was harvested and an excellent stand of grass was in evidence. During 1955 excellent vegetative growth of the grass was obtained, but insufficient seed was produced to make it worthwhile harvesting. In 1956, after two years of careful cultivation and an extensive fertilizing program, a very heavy crop of seed was in prospect. Due to the fact that a hail storm occurred shortly after harvesting operations commenced only a few thousand pounds of seed was harvested. Last fall and winter both cattle and a large number of sheep were pastured on this grass with very excellent results.

Due to certain agronomic characteristics inherent in this grass it would appear as if it will develop into a most useful grass to use in pasture mixtures for this area. Some of these desirable agronomic characteristics are as follows. Russian wild rye grass is a long lived perennial bunch grass with coarse fibrous roots that penetrate the soil to a depth of 8 to 10 feet. Because of this extensive root system the grass exhibits considerable tolerance to drought conditions. Its protein content is higher than that of most grasses presently available for this area, and it has good curing qualities which make it exceptionally useful for late summer, fall and winter grazing.

There has been considerable research work done on Russian wild rye grass at the Swift Current Experimental Station. According to figures that have been recently released by that institution, Russian wild rye grass has a protein content during the later fall and winter period of at least 40 percent greater than either crested wheat or brome grass, its closest competitors in this regard.

According to observations in this area, it would appear as if Russian wild rye grass makes a very early growth. On March 29, this grass was observed on Mr. Lange's farm with an average of two inches of new growth, and was farther advanced than comparable strands of crested wheat grass.

HITS AND PIECES

The fact is that we have been and still are developing Canada in bits and pieces. Some regions flourish and others stagnate; some provinces are wealthy, and others must look for handouts. That is inevitable, perhaps, where 16 million people occupy, or attempt to occupy, a sub-continent. But it is also a powerful argument for large-scale immigration. — Campbellton, N.B., Tribune.

Clean, comfortable accommodation to suit every purse; hostel cabins in the foothills and mountains for hikers; auto courts and motels for motorists; hotels from family style to palatial luxury serve Alberta's visitors all the year round.

PREPARATIONS FOR PLANTING FIELD SHELTERBELTS

Planning is a primary consideration in preparations for planting roadside shelterbelts, or a complete system of protective belts serving the entire land area of the farm. Factors in planning requiring particular consideration are soil type, topography and obstructions to implement operation, and accessibility to buildings and fields.

Field or roadside belts to be effective are required to be 100 to 150 feet from the boundary of the highway or centre of the roadway. North-south orientation is the general rule where conditions warrant the planting of field belts. It is advisable to plant field belts along the general contour of the land when other conditions permit this arrangement, states R. H. Dunlop, Canada Department of Agriculture, Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head, Sask.

Tree belts twenty and not over forty rods apart have been found most desirable in checking soil movement, and for the best distribution of snow over 15 to 25 percent of the land area. Wider fields between belts are justified under specific circumstances.

A practical plan is to spread the planting program over two to four years, planting the strips available each year on regular summer-fallow.

When strip farming is practised, tree belts may be planted on the margin between alternate strips thus forming fields 32 to 40 rods in width, when the farm is divided into strips 16 to 20 rods wide.

Mechanical tree planters do a fine planting job in a good surface worked fallow, but if planting is to be done by hand, deep plowing in the fall prior to planting will make for easier spading.

If weeds have started, a shallow stroke of the disk or cultivator ahead of the planter will save considerable time at wedding later on.

Forest Nursery Stations at Indian Head, and Sutherland, Sask., will supply trees for from one to three miles of single row field shelterbelt per applicant per year. Apply as early in the year prior to planting as possible to: The Superintendent, Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head, Sask.

The R.C.M.P. figures Canadian business losses something like $2,000,000 annually through forged cheques.

Week Control In Lawns

(J. J. Sexsmith, Agronomist)
Most of the common lawn weeds can be controlled by chemicals that are safe to use and easy to apply. However, care must be taken in the selection and application of the chemical if injury to flowers and ornamental trees and shrubs is to be avoided.

Dandelion and common plantain are readily killed with 2, 4-D or MCPA in May or late August. Best results are obtained when the lawn is growing well, in warm weather with an adequate supply of moisture and fertility. The amines or low volatile esters of 2, 4-D and the sodium salts or amines of MCPA are relatively safe to use. Treatment should be made on a calm day and care taken to keep the spray away from the flower beds.

Unwanted clover can be removed from lawns with the low volatile esters of 2, 4, 5-T, and the precautions suggested for 2, 4-D and MCPA should be exercised. Mouse-ear chickweed is difficult to control, but continued treatment with potassium cyanate, available as a "crab grass and chickweed killer," will give some measure of control. The unwanted grass species of this area cannot be removed from lawns with chemicals. Such grasses as wild barley and downy brome can be removed by grubbing.

For best results, the application of chemicals for weed control in lawns should be made in accordance with the rates given on the container labels. Slight overdosage is not too serious, but good weed kills will not be obtained if the treatment rate is lowered. Annual weeds may be controlled in relatively young lawns by the use of much-reduced rates of 2, 4-D, but the rates recommended for dandelion control should be applied only to the older and well-established lawns.

A word of caution! 2, 4-D and some of the other herbicides are difficult to remove from sprayers. Therefore, it is suggested that once used the sprayer should be reserved for weed killing, and not used for applying insecticides to flowers and vegetable crops.

Plants in Ontario and Quebec largely account for Canadian production of patent and proprietary medicines and pharmaceuticals.

H. T. Peard, Local Manager

Future... 4-H Club Member

The two-year-old in his play-pen is fascinated by life around him. He longs to pull the tail feathers out of every chicken on his father's farm. He has no idea at all how a farmer's son should behave, but he'll find out, later, when his brothers initiate him into the local 4-H club.

Here he'll learn by doing, pledged to use his head, heart, hands and health in the best possible way.

4-H Clubs were started with one simple idea in mind: to have rural young people do a worthwhile piece of work at home, voluntarily, and do it better than ever before. Plant a garden plot, perhaps, or raise a calf, make a dress, beautify a room.

The idea was so good—that the young people swept their parents along with them, and farm life improved amazingly.

4-H Clubs have done many useful things. They have kept the right boys and girls on the farm, trained young men and women for leadership, improved life in rural communities by introducing better agricultural and home practices, and implanted the ideal of good citizenship in young minds.

There are about 75,000 4-H members in Canada. Many will graduate into farm organizations in which are the progressive young farmers who—by using modern machinery and farm techniques—help to keep all Canadians well fed.

Nothing like it for fastening bags and bundles, bills and checks, window shades and curtain tie-backs, decorations and scrap books... all kinds of home, school, office, shop and hobby work. On your desk, in your hand, or used as a tacker, this powerful, compact Bostitch all-purpose stapler is tops in speed, neatness, security.

The work stays stapled as long as you want it — then a gentle push on the remover and, ZIP! the staple's out.

You'll like it. So will your friends. Makes an ideal gift.

Kyanize

COLOR-RELATED HOUSE PAINTS

ARE MILDEW RESISTANT

That's important. A paint job costs money, and it should last. Often those dingy blotches that get blamed on smog, or moisture or a poor paint job are really mildew... as often as six times in ten, according to a continuing survey. Mildew is an air-borne fungus that clings to paint and grows and grows. But it can't do either on mildew-resistant Kyanize Color-Related House Paint.

Make your house the handsomest on the street... and be sure it will stay that way a long time. Paint it with mildew-resistant Kyanize Color-Related House Paints keyed to the color of the roof. We'll be glad to help you work out just the right color scheme.
